I Got Posted! What Do I Do? What Don't I Do? July 18th, 2012

BY ISANYBODYDOWN – JULY 18, 2012

POSTED IN: NEWS, PRESS

Due to the increasing numbers of people getting posted and freaking out, I decided to create a guide that will show you how to protect your safety.

We at IAD do not want anyone to be harassed, endangered, badgered, etc. Our community here believes that a bit of heckling is okay, but harassment and threats, and/or any illegal activity is wrong and endangers the fun and the spirit of what we're doing here.

Our viewers come here to see naked people for entertainment, for fun. They aren't looking to harass or hurt anyone.

With that said... here's some basic stuff you can feel free to do if you want, in the interest of your safety and online experience.

Also, it will be followed by some basic 'don'ts' that make things tough for everyone here.

Do:

1. Set your Facebook profile to private. Hide all of your information so that random users can't contact you.
2. Set your phone to disallow calls from blocked numbers. This also guards you against spam.
3. If you are receiving harassing phone calls, most phone companies will allow you to change your number for free. Check with your provider.
4. If you receive any threats or harassing messages from numbers which aren't blocked, save those numbers and forward them to law enforcement. You can also forward them to us and we will publish the info of anyone who harasses you – we have a zero tolerance policy for harassment, threats, etc. towards people who are posted here.
5. You can always pass the buck and submit someone else. I've seen this happen quite a few times over the course of a few months... at first people are mad... then they submit their friends, which makes me happy.

Don't:

1. Don't freak out. They're just nudes. In a week or two, no one will care. You won't be on the front page anymore. Someone else will be there.
2. Don't pretend to be underage. There are lots of legitimate kids out there who really are being exploited by adults and others and the agencies which deal with those types of activities receive those complaints. When you pretend to be underage you make it harder for those children to receive help and you in turn are supporting crimes such as abduction and child slavery. There are millions of children, especially in third world countries like Africa and parts of Indochina, which are sold through the sex trade and black market trafficking. You're hindering their rescue because of your own ego. Not to mention, if you make any false statement to a public representative such as a police officer, you may fall under 18 USC 1001 which may result in up to no more than 5 years imprisonment. Not a good idea.
3. Don't make ridiculous threats or statements about destroying our website, your direct phone line to POTUS, your multi-million dollar lawyer, your dad (who also has a direct line to POTUS), etc. You'll just look silly. If you write something particularly dumb, you'll wind up in the hatemail section.

4. Don't give up hope. The fact that you are posted here is a sign that you are human. Humans make mistakes. If you ever need someone to talk to, the admin is also available most hours of the day.
